HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE
UNITED STATES.

January 12.

It also appears to your committee, that the petition of Joseph Wheaton, serjeant at arms, to this House, praying an enquiry into the charges exhibited against him in certain anonymous letters, was ordered to lie on the table, and so remained during the session.

Your committee further reports, that Committees were appointed to prepare and bring in the several bills following to wit:

A bill to establish an uniform system on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States.

A bill for the further encouragement of the commerce and navigation of the United States.

A bill providing for the actual enumeration of the inhabitants of the United States.

Also a bill providing a proper system of regulation for the Militia of the United States.

Neither of which bills were reported during the session.

It also appears to your committee, that there were postponed by this House for further consideration until the present session, the several bills, to wit:

A bill to promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing to authors and inventors, the exclusive rights to their respective writings and discoveries.

A bill for the establishment of hospitals for the relief of sick and disabled seamen, and prescribing regulations for the harbours of the United States.

A bill concerning the importation of certain persons prior to the year 1808.

A bill to establish a land office and for the western territory. Also a bill sent the Senate, entitled, "an act for the punishment of certain crimes against the United States."

That the bill, entitled "an act to establish the seal of government of the United States," was postponed by the Senate for the further consideration of an amendment proposed by this House until the present session.

And lastly, that the report of the committee appointed to examine into the measures taken by Congress, and the State of Virginia, respecting lands reserved for the officers and soldiers of the said State, was postponed by this House for further consideration.

THURSDAY January, 14.

The members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States went this day in their carriages, preceded by the serjeant at arms on horseback, and presented their addresses to the President, in answer to his address to both Houses.

To the President of the United States.

SIR,

WE, the Senate of the United States, return you our thanks for your speech delivered to both Houses of Congress. The accession of the State of N. Carolina, to the constitution of the United States gives us much pleasure; and we offer you our congratulations on that event, which at the same time adds strength to our union, and affords a proof, that the more the Constitution has been considered the more the goodness of it has appeared. The information which we have received, that the measures of the last session have been as satisfactory to our constituents as we had reason to expect, from the difficulty of the work in which we were engaged, will afford us much consolation and encouragement in resuming our deliberations in the present session for the public good, and every exertion on our part shall be made to realize and secure to our country these blessings which a gracious Providence has placed within her reach. We are persuaded, that one of the most effectual means of preserving peace is to be prepared for war; and our attention shall be directed to the object; of common defence, and to the adoption of such plans as shall appear the most likely to prevent our dependence on other countries for essential supplies. In the arrangements to be made respecting the establishment of such troops as may be deemed indispensable, we shall with pleasure provide for the comfortable support of the officers and soldiers, with a due regard to economy. We reiterate that the pacific measures adopted by government, with regard to certain hostile tribes of Indians, have not been attended with the beneficial effects towards the inhabitants of our Southern and Western frontiers, which we had reason to hope; and we shall co-operate in providing the most effectual means, for their protection; and if necessary, for the punishment of aggressors. The uniformity of the currency, and of weights and measures, the introduction of new and useful inventions from abroad, and the exertions of skill and genius in producing them at home; the facilitating the communication between the distant parts of our country, by means of the post-office and post roads; a provision for the support of the department of foreign affairs, and an uniform rule of naturalization, by which foreigners may be admitted to the rights of citizens—are objects which shall receive such early attention as their respective importance requires. Literature and science are essential to the preservation of a free constitution; the measures of government should therefore be calculated to strengthen the confidence that is due to that important trust. Agriculture, commerce and manufactures, forming the basis of the wealth and strength of our confederated republic, must be the frequent subject of our deliberation, and shall be advanced by all proper means in our power. Public credit being an object of great importance, we shall cheerfully co-operate in all proper measures for its support. Proper attention shall be given to such papers and estimates as you may be pleased to lay before us. Our cares and efforts shall be directed to the welfare of our country; and we have the most perfect dependence upon your co-operation with us, on all occasions, in such measures as will insure to our fellow citizens the blessings which they have a right to expect from a free, efficient, and equal government.

To which the President made the following Reply

Gentlemen,
I THANK you for your Address, and for the assurances which it contains of attention to the several matters suggested by me to your exertions for.

Relying on the continuance of your exertions for the public good, I anticipate for our country, the salutary effects of upright and prudent councils.

G. WASHINGTON.

Yesterday, being the day appointed for reading the reports of the Secretary of the treasury, the galleries were unusually crowded.

The clerk read about one third of the reports in the forenoon, when the House adjourned, in order to wait upon the President with their address. The remainder of the report was read after they returned.

To give a detail of the Secretary's report would more than fill the bounds of a newspaper; but when we can get a copy, it shall be inserted in full. For the present, in order to gratify the curiosity of such readers as could not attend at the House of Representatives to hear it read, we will venture to enumerate a few particulars which were communicated by a correspondent, being intended merely to convey a general idea of the report.

DIRECTIONS for GARDENING

From the memorandum of a person in that business, after twenty years practice in this State.

April. The first of this month sow your last crop of Pease, plant French Beans, middle dig your Artichokes and slip them, leaving two or three of the strongest on every hill: sow Cabbage, coleworts, lettuce, radish, cresses, and white mustard; plant out cabbages and coleworts; sow colliflowers and broccoli.—Plant french beans once a week throughout this month and all the subsequent ones, till you expect the frost will destroy your crop. If the weather is favorable, plant Lima beans. I would advise two or three plantings of this kind at the interval of six or seven days; they are good to put into the ground in winter, instead of the hominy bean. You should, if you have room in your garden, have two squares for artichokes, one square prepared against you slip, into which let the best of your slips at four feet distance; if the season proves dry water every evening. This plantation will produce fine artichokes the second or third year, and perhaps longer. When they bear plentifully, you may dig up your former square (which will be fine for cabbages, or any other produce) and set out a new one; always remembering to make the ground very rich. Do not suffer many artichokes to run to seed for that injures the plants very much.
